FEBRUARY 2017 VOLUME 93 ISSUE 6

From Rabbi Holtz's Study ►

Dear Friends,

Honi ha-Ma'agal (Honi the Circle Maker) is one of the odder characters in Jewish lore. He got his nickname because he could draw a circle around himself on the ground, ask God for something and get an answer. Legend has it that he once saved the people of Israel from devastating drought by drawing one of his circles, stationing himself within, and declaring, "Master of the Universe, by Your great Name, I swear that I will not move from here until you have mercy on Your children." It immediately began to rain. His disciples, as well as the sages of Israel, were all amazed at his audacity, and at the fact that God did not strike him down for it.

Honi may also have been an inspiration for the legend of Rip Van Winkle. Toward the end of his life, Honi fell asleep for seventy years. When he awoke, no one knew him, and none would believe him. In despair, we are told, "he sought God's mercy - and then he died."

One of my favorite Honi stories, and one of the most familiar, is one that relates directly to the festival of Tu B'Shevat, the New Year of the Trees, which we celebrate this year on February 11:

It is told in the Talmud that once upon a time, Honi the Circle-Maker was walking along the road, when he saw an elderly man planting a carob tree. Honi asked him, "How long will it take this tree to bear fruit?" The man replied, "Seventy years." Honi asked, "I don't mean to be rude, grandfather, but are you quite sure you will live another seventy years to eat its fruit?" The man replied, "I may or may not live that long. But when I was born, I found fully grown carob trees in this world. They were planted by my ancestors. Just as they planted for me, so am I planting for the generations to come."

Tree planting is an act of faith, a statement of belief in the future. Who can know what our lives, what the world will be like even five years from now, let alone seventy years? And yet, when a child is born, the custom is to plant a tree from which the poles of his or her marriage canopy will be cut. Tree planting is a recognition that the best things (trees; human relationships) take time to grow.

So, in celebration of Tu B'Shevat, the New Year of the Trees, plan to plant a tree in your yard this spring. For other celebration ideas, take a look at the Tu B'Shevat supplement in this bulletin.

May each generation bless the one before for its wisdom and its foresight in keeping our world green.

L'shalom,

Rabbi David Holtz

Notes from Cantor Margot E.B. Goldberg

Shalom!

As the Israelites prepared to cross the Red Sea Moses sang:

אָז יִשִּׁיר מֹשֶׁה וּבְנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל אֶת הַשִּׁירָה הַזֹּאת, לַיהוָה, וַיֹּאמְרוּ, לַאמֵּר: אֲשִׁירָה לַיהוָה כִּי גָאָה גָאָה, סוֹס וְרֹכְבוֹ רָמָה בַיָּם.

Then sang Moses and the children of Israel this song unto the LORD, and spoke, saying: I will sing unto the LORD, for He is highly exalted; the horse and his rider hath He thrown into the sea. (Exodus 15:1)

There is a tradition that says that when the Israelites reached the other side of the Red Sea and rejoiced God scolded them saying "Why do you rejoice as my creations are dying?" The song of the sea includes the text of Mi Chamocha: "Who is like you, O God, among the gods that are worshipped? Who is like You, majestic in holiness, awesome in splendor, working wonders." I would like to think that the "wonders" that Moses was referring to were the 10 plagues and not the killing of the Egyptians. I love that we have always acknowledged in our prayers that there are other gods, that there are others who worship in a different way than we do. It is important to remember that there are other peoples and then work to understand each other so that we can live in peace.

And yet this moment in our history is certainly one to celebrate. Join us on February 10 at 7:30pm to celebrate our freedom. To do as Moses and the Israelites did at this moment and to sing!

My article last month was about instrumentation in the ancient Temple and a call to the musicians of TBA to lend their musicianship to our worship as well as our community. I have spoken with some who are interested and will continue to reach out and chat about how to incorporate the many talents and passions of our congregants. At the same time, I thought that it would be fun to give you a taste of what services might be like with a band and there is no better time than when we read parshat B'shalach, when Moses sings one of his songs and we celebrate Shabbat Shirah, the Sabbath of Song!

Join for Shabbat Shirah on February 10 at 7:30pm
as we welcome our very own Katia Kravitz on keyboards

Celebrate Tu B'Shvat by supporting Israel

“But every man shall sit under his grapevine or fig tree, with no one to disturb him...”

וַיֵּשְׁבוּ, אִישׁ תַּחַת גִּפְנוֹ וְתַחַת תְּאֵנָתוֹ וְאֵין מַחְרִיד...

Micah 4:4

Towards the end of “Hamilton” George Washington is heard to quote from the book of Micah:

“Like the scripture says: ‘Everyone shall sit under their own vine and fig tree and no one shall make them afraid.’ They’ll be safe in the nation we’ve made / I wanna sit under my own vine and fig tree / A moment alone in the shade / at home in this nation we’ve made”

Lin Manuel Miranda was tapping into an ancient tradition, because this phrase from Micah has long been an idiom for peace and tranquility in the land of Israel, and elsewhere. In addition, the plants mentioned, grapes and figs, are two of the “seven species,” the agricultural heart of the land of Israel. Fruit trees such as figs have always been an important mainstay there, so much so that the trees have their own New Year holiday – Tu B'Shvat, the 15th day of the month of Shvat, which this year falls on February 11. It is still winter here, but in Israel this is when the earliest-blooming trees in the Land of Israel emerge from their winter sleep and begin a new fruit-bearing cycle.

This year however, there will be substantially fewer trees blooming. In November, the north of Israel was engulfed in six days of devastating fires, destroying thousands of acres of forests and forcing hundreds of families to abandon their homes. The Jewish National Fund (JNF) is spearheading the effort both to replant what was lost, and to develop the capability to prevent future conflagrations.

Jewish National Fund (JNF) began in 1901 as a dream and vision to reestablish a homeland in Israel for Jewish people everywhere. You probably remember the iconic JNF Blue Boxes, which we filled with coins to help purchase land and plant trees. Today, JNF continues to give all generations of Jews a unique voice in building a prosperous future for the land of Israel and its people.

From JNF's beginning, Tu B'Shvat, the Israeli Arbor Day, has been the focal point of the annual tree-planting campaign. This year, the need is particularly acute. We encourage you to celebrate Tu B'Shvat and the land of Israel by donating a tree, either in honor or memory of a loved one, or just because.

You can reach JNF at 888-JNF-0099 or www.jnf.org, or use the order form on the next page.
